

WEDDING VOW THOUGHT STARTERS

Why do you love your significant other?

Think about something sentimental/meaningful & something funny/lighthearted.*

What is a funny/lighthearted story and/or personality trait that makes you both unique as a couple?

Telling an inside joke might resonate with the two of you, but not everyone else, so keep that in mind here; you want your guests to relate to what you are saying!*

What are you promising to each other throughout your marriage?

Take this part seriously since this is really what your wedding vows are about.*

WEDDING VOW TIPS

- Outline your ideas; type them out & save them in a safe place so you can easily make edits!
- Don't feel like you have to include everything you want to say; you are getting married, so you know you love each other, even if you don't say it all in your vows.
- Keep your wedding vows short & sweet so they are memorable & not boring for your guests! Our vows were no longer than one minute each.
- Don't wait until the last minute to write them! Your wedding day will be hectic, so don't try to wake up the morning of your wedding to get them done.
- Reference ideas from other people's wedding vows if needed.
- Get inspired by your favorite songs, quotes, books, etc.
- Write your vows in a wedding vow book. Even if you memorize your wedding vows, you might get more nervous than you think on the day of the wedding, so keep them handy! You don't want to forget all the important things you want to say!
- Practice reading your vows out loud before the big day! Time yourself & make sure the way you are saying your vows is how you want them to sound (especially if you get nervous speaking in front of people.)
- Keep your wedding vows a secret, unless you think you'll be too emotional. If that is the case, then talk to your partner about reading them beforehand so you know what to expect (we did this!)
